Kenwood TH-D74 is a really good fit for my needs. As a current on the market handheld radio, it provides up to 5W output on 144, 220, and 440 amateur bands in FM and NFM. It has 1000 memory channels, like the Yaesu FT-60r does. It also has built-in APRS capability, like my older Kenwood TH-D7A and a few other radios.

December 26th, 2019 The first thing to do is to add your hotspot to your repeater list. I read about various ways that this can be done, but the only way I could get it to work was by using a method that Ed Woodrick, WA4YIH, the guy behind DSTAR Info, explained in a post in the Kenwood TH-D74 group. Thanks Ed.

December 15th, 2019 This was part of the older HTs for Kenwood's Skymand system. Used to remotely operate radios like a TS-2000. But Kenwood left it out of the TH-D74. Other than that, the TH-D74 improves on functionality found in the older radios.
